He said, "Once more this historic-meeting-house has been redecorated to to serve the religious needs of any all who wish to make use of it for enrichment of their individual lives for generating inspiration to help build a Christian Community. Those who formed the organization which originally raised the church believed it to be the right, as well as the duty of all to join in society as publicly at all times and occasions, to unite in worship of the only living and true God."

They agreed "as Disciples of Jesus Christ to live in peace among themselves; claiming no right to exercise authority over the consciences of each other in spiritual matters, but to stand fast in the rights, of speech, and of judgment, the part of both the minister and regeneration. We rededicate it to the service of a religion which is primarily an affair of values, having as its main interest, the worth and potentiality of human nature. We rededicate it to the service of the modest and courageous character and the upbuilding of the co-operative commonwealth.

CASCO

Frank Harmon Dead—Christmas Tree and Program.

Frank E. Harmon of Casco Village died at his home, Thursday, Dec. 22, at 9 a. m., after an illness of over three years. Mr. Harmon was born in Naples, April 20, 1862, the son of Ira Harmon and Elsie (Gannon) Harmon, both of Naples.

When a young man, he was for some years engaged in the "salvage" business, distributing material for men's garments to be made in the homes.

In 1893, he married Caroline Y. Jordan of Cook's Mills, Casco, and after living for some time at Edes Falls, they moved to this town, where they owned and lived in four different residences.

Mr. Harmon was selected as overseer of the poor for three years; member of the school committee for three years; had charge of a cream collecting business for some time, and then conducted a grocery store in Casco Village. He then moved his family to Woodford where he was for eleven years a salesman for the Miliken-Tomlinson Company, and after undergoing operations from which he never recovered, he returned to his home in Casco.

He was formerly a member of Casco Union Church, then Woodford Congregational Church. He is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Roy O. Mersey of Casco, Mrs. Clarence F. Cole of Falmouth, and Miss Helen C. Harmon of Casco; four grandchildren and two nephews, Robert and Carl Leach, of Raymond. Funeral services were conducted at Casco Union Church, Saturday, at 2 p. m., and interment was in Lake View Cemetery.

Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, Dec. 24, the children of the Casco church gathered for their Christmas tree service. Program was as follows:

Invocation—Congregation.
Prayer—Rev. Mr. Allen.
Song—"The First Christmas"—Mrs. Stevenson.
Song—"The Christmas Story"—Mrs. Harmon.
Reading—"The Christmas Story"—Mrs. Harmon.
Prayer—Rev. Mr. Allen.
